CRSReports.com PRESS RELEASE, October 1²⁰¹⁵

CRSR<small>EPORTS</small>.<small>COM</small>

CRSReports.com is a new website that provides instant access to Congressional Research Service documents. For the first time politicians, advisers, academics and journalists off the Hill are able access over 30,000 CRS documents through a single site with no fee or login required.

Overview of content.

Congressional Research Services (CRS) documents are informative, nonpartisan policy reports that address issues before members of the US Congress. CRS Reports are researched and written by the Library of Congress' (LOC) CRS team. CRS researchers and writers are experts in their field and have access to industry and political leaders within the US and abroad. Their documents are published with an Order Code and date schema, and fall into 6 research divisions.

Research Devisions	Order Code Abbreviations
American Law	RL	Report Long
Domestic Social Policy	RS	Report Short <7 Pages
Foreign Affairs, Defense, and Trade	A	Appropriations Report released as RL
Government and Finance	IB	Issue Briefs <16 pages
Resources, Science, and Industry	BB	Briefing Books
Knowledge Services Group	RM	Research Memo